The sour grape story is called to mind with the assertion of Mr. Tom L. Johnson, of Ohio, that he does not desire to be Governor of the State.

The graceful Senator Tillman has declared that the silver plank of the Kansas City platform must be retained. As the Senator is a farmer, like Mr. Bryan he should have said something about wheat.

The western papers continue the eastern notion that because Bryan is losing followers, they are shifting toward Cleveland. Rather, it is stated, they are going into the Republican party.

Tom Johnson, of Ohio, says he has an eye on Senator Hanna's seat which causes the Washington Post to remark that the Cleveland heavyweight Mayor had better remove his eye as the Senator frequently sits down without looking behind him.

I don't care whom the Democrat nominate for President in 1904 said Adlai E. Stevenson. None of your back handed, side wiping, suicidal cuts at former Presidents and defeated candidates of the Democratic party for your Uncle Adlai.

There is no good reason why the President should not feel fairly comfortable over the political situation, as undoubtedly he does. In the first place he has no effective opposition in his own party and in the second place that party has no formidable opposition in the country.

The Progressive Farmer published at Raleigh, N. C., has the query "Do cows have hollow horns or hollow tails?" The solution of the latter inquiry will be awaited with interest. We should think that tail soup made from a cow's hollow tail would probably be less nourishing than some other varieties.

Representative Babcock the Chairman of the Republican Congressional campaign committee, is being talked of for Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, which carries with it the position of leader on the floor of that body. This in view of the poor physical condition of the present leader, Soren E. Payne, of New York.

Several conferences at Oyster Bay indicate that the extraordinary session of Congress will hardly be held at a date earlier than November ninth. The objection is made that the calling of a session in October will seriously interfere with the state campaigns of many Senators and Representatives. Senator Oullman desires as early a session as possible in order to secure the passage of the Cuban reciprocity bill.

In the impossible event of Republican disaster in 1904 it would be desirable to see a good man at the head of the Democratic ticket. To this extent are the Republicans interested in having a safe and conservative man nominated for the first place on the Democratic ticket, a man representing sound finances, not pledged to tariff smashing, and of sensible convictions regarding our island possessions, instead of a hate braind domagee and a skulawag.

A striking illustration of the erroneous notion of the Shakespearean proverb that "the evil a man does lives after him but the good is off" interwoven with his bones," is contained in the eulogies which have been printed by county papers since the death of Bristol's distinguished citizen. Stones that were hurled during life are now being used to erect a monument to his memory. This fact, after all is a splendid commentary upon the real brotherhood of man.

"Handsome Harry" Heywood, theATTLE editor of the Conestogoh Recorder, who is as coy as a sea shore demolelle, took occasion last week to trifle with the affections of the editor of the Gazette. We refuse, however, to permit our esteem for the Recorder's editor to be diminished. Whether "listening to his inspiring eloquence in the shadow of the patriotic" tomb in the Wyoming Valley, whether in close communion and absorbing wisdom at his footstool, following blindly in search of recollections, or perusing contentedly his written word, upon the science of the beautiful in nature and in art, we are then happy. Therefore no such regrets as were heaped at our last week will poison the fountain of our regard.

Announcement is made that the coming session of the National Irrigation Congress at Ogden Utah will thoroughly discuss the public land question. If so it will be a good thing, as the people of the country will then learn something about the wholesale land frauds which are being perpetrated against the Government and also the methods which the land speculators and live stock monopolies are employing in order to obtain possession of the best remaining public lands. That public land stealing is not an alarm in a cry is seen in the fact that the President, in his last message, called specific attention to the extremely dangerous features of the desert land law, in connection clause of the homestead law and the timber and shore law, and urges upon Congress their repeal.

Should Judge Taft be selected by the President as Secretary of War in the event of Mr. Root's presumable retirement next winter, no appointment that the President could make could meet with more general approval throughout the country. Judge Taft, in every position that he has occupied, has shown himself possessed of strong qualities. As Governor of the Philippines he has given the best and most numerous proofs of his ability, and as the Philippine question is likely, for some years to come, to be one of the most difficult problems with which the War Department has to deal, Judge Taft's appointment as Secretary of War would be not only a well-merited promotion, but would place him directly in line with the work in which he has been so successful. Judge Taft's father was Secretary of War under President Grant.

The per capita circulation in this county is $29.54. We can account for the 54 cents all right.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN GILKESON.

The appreciation which the people not only of Bristol and Bucks county, but also of other parts of the State had of the Hon. B. F. Gilkeson, was fully shown by the large attendance at the funeral service last Monday. His prominence in county and State affairs brought to his grave a vast concourse of friends who came to pay their last respects to Bristol's most distinguished citizen.

Mr. Gilkeson was eminently a man of full character. What he undertook to do he did with his might. With indefatigable energy he pursued the object he set on foot and was tireless in his endeavors until the end was reached.

His nature showed the bent of his mind. It was of the compelling kind. He was not as a rule passive. He relied upon the marshalling of his facts and the force of his logic. His demonstrations were vigorous and frequently his invective was bitter. In presenting a case to a jury he sought to convince by strong argument rather than by earnest appeals to sympathy or prejudice. He was learned in his profession and stood at the head of the Bucks County Bar. He faithfully served his clients, in matters both small and great. He gave the greatest care to details and was quick to see any false position taken by his opponent.

Politically Mr. Gilkeson was a born leader. Politics was his avocation. He was in his element while directing the progress of a campaign. Under his guidance victory has been won, while defeat seemed inevitable. When Mr. Gilkeson first entered the political arena, Bristol was a Democratic town. To him more than to any one else came the credit of giving to changing the Democratic majority into a Republican one.

Mr. Gilkeson's social qualifications were of a high order. He was well read and was a most entertaining talker. His fund of knowledge seemed almost inexhaustible and whether the subject was of church or state, ancient or modern, local or world wide he would charm his hearers with the penetration of his views upon the subject under discussion.

A man of Mr. Gilkeson's force could not exist without making enemies. Some had fancied grievances, others, whose sides of ethical questions differed from his, resented the positions he took and a groveling upbraid. But his friends far outnumbered his enemies and as they stood at his side and gazed mournfully at the face placed in death they realized that a wise counselor and a faithful friend had gone to "the undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns."

MR. LEAR'S WITHDRAWAL
As announced in last week's Gazette, Henry Lear Esq., of Doylestown, has declined the Republican nomination for the office of Judge of the Seventh Judicial District and has withdrawn his name from further consideration, and the party is in the position of being without a candidate after a striking manifestation in convention of the desire to have an opponent to the present incumbent, who is a candidate for reelection.

It is a duty that devolves upon the county convention which meets next month to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Lear's withdrawal. The situation which culminated in Mr. Lear's nomination has not been altered by that gentleman's refusal to remain a candidate. All of the reasons which lead to a nomination by the Republican Judiciary convention are still sound and remain as forceful as before it was known Mr. Lear would consent to be a candidate. In view of these facts it is a foregone conclusion that the September convention will make another nomination.

The Bucks County Bar has included in its membership a number of lawyers of fine abilities who can represent the party worthily as judicial candidates, among whom stand out prominently Hugh B. Westburn, Henry O. Harris, William C. Ryan, Malhot R. Stout and Joseph W. Sells, who are all members of the county with the exception of Mr. Harris.

The convention should make a free and untrammelled choice, in which event the successful nominee will have bright chances of winning the election.

The action of Prince George County, Maryland convention in endorsing Mr. Gorman for President calls special attention to that statesman's candidacy. It is admitted that the Democrats must make their fight this year on tariff reform, slightly veiled and befogged in the trust issue, but the straight out tariff question nevertheless. How then would Mr. Gorman do as a Democratic candidate? He would seem a more likely quantity were the country on a free trade basis and the tariff reform proposition in the other direction, for Mr. Gorman is an avowed protectionist. He believed in it and his actions have been consistently those of a protectionist, even to the extent of emasculating the Wilson tariff bill so that Grover Cleveland authorized it as a measure of "purity and dishonor." As a matter of fact the talk of genuine free trade, burning up the custom houses, etc., etc., will never again constitute an effective shield for the Democrats, the only kind of tariff cry at which they can hope to win would be some such one as Mr. Gorman would approve—protection but slightly modified—on other words, tariff reform has lost its potency as a Democratic campaign slogan; but the Democrats need a few more whippings and defeats before they will care to realize the fact.

Pension Office Humor.

The Pension Bureau is wrestling with the problem whether one Orrville James really is a sufferer from dropsy. James is a veteran of the Civil War, who lives in a small hamlet in New Hampshire. The examiners have been taking testimony in his case, and the evidence is conflicting. But the most remarkable testimony of all is given in the following affidavit, to which one of the claimant's neighbors subscribes.

I verily believe that Orrville James is fatigued again his lean bones he is too fat, was 200 pounds and he is a family to the neighbors. He didn't have no spots, but the neighbors think he have dropsy, but I no he have no dropsy because he would bust if he had more inside him than he now has, been with me a family to the neighbors. I no he have solid fat and vitals in him and no dropsy.

An athletic applicant is supported by the following extract from the letter of one of his neighbors:

He got dropped in his pipes—and when his pipes wasn't wet with spit he was a family to the neighbors. He didn't have no spots, but the neighbors think he have dropsy, but I no he have no dropsy because he would bust if he had more inside him than he now has, been with me a family to the neighbors. I no he have solid fat and vitals in him and no dropsy.

The Fight for Good Roads

Philadelphia Inquirer
In his admirable speech upon good roads before the farmers of Bucks county, Senator Roberts, of Montgomery, called attention to the crux of the situation, which is that the bill passed by the last Legislature is not self-operative, but depends upon the farmers and other residents of the various townships for its execution. There can be no good roads under the present liberal law unless the people of each community want them and are willing to pay their share of the expense. The State is not building roads and presenting them to the county, and it would not be a good plan to do so even if there were enough money in the treasury to permit such extravagance. Few things in this world are properly appreciated unless some sacrifice is made to get them.

Good roadwork can now be built for five thousand dollars a mile, and though this is a large sum, local taxation to the extent of only $851 is required. Of course it will take many miles to be of any lasting benefit to a community and the aggregate local taxation seems large, yet it has been demonstrated to a mathematician that the farmers will be taxed in the end no more than they have now in repairs to wagons by being compelled to take small loads to market. That good roads all over the State are desirable as no doubts. They are never to be acquired by whittling down or waiting for the State to do all the work. It is only as the people of each community get to work in earnest that the great desideratum will be eventually reached.

Already it is apparent that jealousy in the various communities are standing in the way of the improvements. The narrow minded farmer would be glad to vote the tax if the road passed his own farm, but if it were one that he could use immediately that checks all progress. If a community is to wait until all the roads are improved as once it will wait until doomsday. The intelligent, broad minded man will cheerfully vote for any improvement of the roads in his township, knowing that his turn will soon come and that, after all, whatever benefits a part of the community benefits the whole.

Unless the people are quick to take advantage of the largeness of the State it is to be feared that the Legislature will not be able to extend its bounty when the present limit expires. Pennsylvania has the worst roads of any large state in the country. There is now an opportunity to improve conditions, and it ought to be seized eagerly instead of with suspicion, as is now the case in many communities which at present are in the greatest need of the new roads.

A meeting of the Republican County Committee will be held at Doylestown on Tuesday morning of next week, for the purpose of authorizing a call for a judicial convention, in all probability the date set for the regular county convention will be selected. It is believed that the committee will be organized at this time, in which event its success will be close at hand.

A Big Excursion.

Nearly 1200 people accompanied the Mohican Tribe, 127, Improved Order of Red Men, on their excursion to the Delaware River on last Saturday afternoon, and on their return to Bristol on Sunday morning. When the time for departure arrived the Bristol excursionists got mixed up on the wharf with a crowd of excursionists from Philadelphia, and in the confusion did not reach Bristol until 2 a. m. The excursion was a success financially and barring the discomfort of leaving the Park was a very pleasant outing.

Basketball Season Near.

Arrangements are being made by the managers for the opening of the National Basketball season of 1903-04, which will occur on Saturday night, October 24. The schedule of games has not yet been completed. The National League season will consist of a six team circuit. Just what cities will be represented has not yet been announced but applications have been received from New York, Trenton, Burlington, Millville, Yorkers, Poughkeepsie and Camden.

A team from western Pennsylvania has expressed its desire to play a game here. It is probable that this will be taken in if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

There is yet some discussion in the case of the National Basketball Association, which shall consist of only half a point. The chief objection to this is that it is not severe enough. There are those who contend that the National Basketball Association should consist of the same as a full point. This arrangement would certainly have a tendency to keep the game clean.

Bristol's Heavy Man Dies.

Wilson Lippincott, Bristol's noted heavy-weight, died suddenly on Monday morning of apoplexy. It has been claimed that he was a very large man, weighing 300 pounds. At the time of his death he weighed five hundred and sixty-four pounds, which weight was ascribed to him by his getting on the scales last week. The deceased had been ailing for some time and was being treated at a sanatorium at a resort of late, the increase being one hundred pounds during the past year. He was very proud of his weight and was a favorite at the local races. He was a native of Bristol and had lived in Bristol for a number of years with his family. He is survived by a widow, three children and several sons. Two of his daughters are large women, one weighing two hundred pounds, while the third is of slender build. The sons are ordinarily good-sized men.

Great Difficulty.

Great difficulty was experienced in preparing the corpse for burial. Having died while in his room on the second floor of his home on Otter street, and owing to the inability to handle the body, it became necessary to cut into the ceiling of the second story window to the width of a foot and remove that much of the side of house, when the corpse was taken to place in the coffin. A large apparatus, down over the porch into the yard, where the coffin had been placed, and the body had to be lowered by means of a pulley system.

The special casket which was made to order was three feet wide and twenty-five inches deep, inside measurements. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when a large number of friends attended. Interment was at the Bristol Cemetery.

TRIBUTE TO GREAT LAWYER.

THE BUCKS COUNTY BAR ASSOCIATION HONORS MR. GILKESON'S MEMORY—BRIEF HISTORY AND POSTHUMOUS FLEET—THE FUNERAL SERVICES—REVOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

It was with sincere regret that the citizens of this community learned of the death of Hon. B. F. Gilkeson, of Bristol. Mr. Gilkeson not only had many warm friends here but was known to a majority of the people who esteemed him for his pleasant social qualities. A meeting of the Bar Association was held Saturday evening when eloquent tributes were paid to his memory.

Hon. Harman Yerkes, President Judge of the County, was elected chairman. Upon taking the chair he said: "We have lost a great man, one whom we all realize occupied the foremost place in our community. Personally his death is to me a severe blow, but as a citizen I am glad to see that he has left behind him a good citizen. I am glad to see that he has left behind him a good citizen. I am glad to see that he has left behind him a good citizen."

Mr. Gilkeson's social relations, his private life, living at such a distance from him, I have known little. Politically I am not qualified to speak of him further than to say that he was a man of great service to his party in the county and State. As a lawyer he was deservedly respected, and his death is a great loss to the community. He was noted for his diligence and the careful preparation of his cases, even to the smallest detail. The new road law can be understood better if one first in mind that the state will pay two-thirds of the cost, the county one-sixth and the township one-sixth, or in other words the road costs $5000 a mile the state pays $3333.34, the county $833.33, and the township $833.33.

Within a few weeks the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company will have everything in readiness to put water to work down upon the burning seams of coal, which for the past fifty years have been known as the "Greenwood fire." It was about the year 1857 that a man built a fire to warm himself while waiting for the winter's supply of coal from the outcropping veins. The man left the place without extinguishing the fire and it continued to burn, and the "Greenwood fire" was born.

It is said on good authority that a trolley road will be built between Newtown and Willow Grove at an early date. The route between the two places has been decided upon and considerable of the right of way acquired by the company.

Mrs. Emma Culliffe, aged 26 years, of Norristown, died in a dental chair in the office of Dr. Bowman, at Telford, on Wednesday evening, while under the influence of chloroform, for the extraction of several teeth. Dr. Bowman employed as a servant by Mrs. Ebert at Highland Park and suffered greatly from toothache. In the hopes that she could relieve the pain he had her teeth extracted. Dr. Bowman examined her before administering the chloroform and thought she was in good condition. After he had extracted the teeth he was called to the door and sent for another physician, but she died. Under the circumstances it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The new public road lately laid out east of the railroad and Mill creek, at Wyomissing, will soon be widened to 60 feet and the road in the flat along the winding stream will be closed up and vacated. Among Gilmore's stone mansions, of Backlinton, are now engaged in building three bridges for Wrightstown township on the line of the new road, which runs through lands of John Curtis, Warner C. Thompson and Charles E. Ope. With the making of this new road a dangerous railroad crossing near James Leacy's will be avoided.

The dwelling house on the farm of Erwin Harwick in the lower end of Millford township was totally destroyed by fire Thursday. Mr. Harwick and his family were awakened by the roar of the flames and with great difficulty managed to escape from the burning structure. The fire spread with such great rapidity that the occupants of the dwelling were unable to save any of their effects and had time to do only the scantiest raiment. Among other losses sustained by Mr. Harwick was that of $500 in currency, which is supposed to have been consumed by the flames. Mr. Harwick's son also lost $100 in like manner. Nothing, as far as is known, was saved from destruction. The origin of the fire is unknown and the amount of insurance, if any, has not been ascertained.

The residence of Harry Willis, at Parkland, took fire about half an hour after midnight on Thursday and was completely destroyed with all its contents. The Willis family, seven in all, escaped in their night clothes, the rapid progress of the flames after they were discovered making it impossible to save anything from the burning house. The neighborhood was soon alarmed, and a bucket brigade was promptly formed. While the fire fighters were endeavoring to contain the flames, the fire spread so rapidly that it could not prevent the destruction of the Willis house. A picturesque feature of the affair was the part played by Miss Millard, a neighbor of the Willis, who, in charge of the bucket brigade and directed its efforts like a veteran "fire ladder," with a bravery and intelligence that commanded the admiration of the onlookers. The loss by the fire is estimated at $10,000.

Nothing definite is reported in regard to the erection of the Bucks County Hospital. Society's building will be known until the building committee holds a meeting, which will be in a few days, for the purpose of finding a suitable site and of how to reduce the cost of the building, so that it can be put up with the present funds. The bids opened a few days ago ranged from $25,000 to $30,000, while the Society only has $15,000. Dr. E. W. Martin, chairman of the committee, said Friday morning that Architect Trumbore, of Philadelphia, had conferred with the lowest bidder, a Montgomery county contractor, whose bid was much less than the others, and had learned that the price might be reduced to $10,000 if some slight modifications in the plans were made. It is not thought, however, that the Society will accept of the bid, but that the wings might be dropped for the present or some parts left unfinished.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl seated at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly trampling on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money in building a cypressine castle, but neglects to provide his family with the necessities of life. The man who neglects to provide for his family is like the grass-hopper who is heedless of the snake which is coiled under his feet. BASE BALL GAMES.

Somerton 12, Bloomsdale 5.

Somerton defeated Bloomsdale last Saturday afternoon by the score of 12 to 5. Bloomsdale's team was very badly broken up and three men were playing out of their positions. Somerton was shut out until the fifth inning, when, Leigh's delivery was so good that it sent Bloomsdale's pitcher into a panic. A large crowd was in attendance. The score follows:

SOMERTON A. A.		BLOOMSDALE.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

It was Leigh's first game as a pitcher, and he did well. He made three fine catches but was very bad on ground balls. Mackenzie caught a fine foul fly. Phillips caught a nice fly. Snyder made a nice stop. Butler caught well.

Doylestown Won by a Run.

The game of base ball at the Doylestown Ball Park on Saturday afternoon between the Doylestown A. A. and the Bristol A. A. teams resulted in a slug-fest match and the contest was won by Doylestown by the score of 8 to 7. The game proved to be exciting from start to finish. The visiting team was accompanied by a fair-sized crowd of rooters.

Concerning Trade Unions.

Editorial of Roosevelt is unfavorable to trade unions. Be that as it may, unions are all right when represented by cool-headed, intelligent men. It is a poor man's labor that gets all the credit for his labor but he has no right to interfere with others should he become dissatisfied with his situation and another man takes his place. This is a free country. There is no doubt that the demand for labor is high and some men are worth the full amount, while inferior hands demand the same wage. It seems to us, the better way would be to pay a workman according to his ability. We know of one union in particular whose weekly scale is $16.00 for 54 hours work. We have seen plenty of men who were not worth the half of that amount to their employer, yet the union demands that there shall be no distinction made.

Not Over-Weigh.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl seated at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly trampling on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money in building a cypressine castle, but neglects to provide his family with the necessities of life. The man who neglects to provide for his family is like the grass-hopper who is heedless of the snake which is coiled under his feet. The man who neglects to provide for his family is like the grass-hopper who is heedless of the snake which is coiled under his feet.

A FREAK OF NATURE.

Wonderful Traveling Sand Hills That Are Found in Penn.

After passing another "town" of three or four mud hills we enter the famous desert of Islay, on which are what I consider the most remarkable natural curiosities to be seen on this globe. For we are now among hundreds of miles of pure white sand and crescents on a plateau of 4,500 feet above the level of the sea and fifty-four miles from the coast, where all else is of a dark red or chocolate color. Whence comes this sand and why always in a crescent shape? Professor Bailey told me that scientific men do not agree as to the reason why the sand always forms the same crescent shape, although it is generally believed that the whirling eddies hereabout are responsible. Some, however, argue that this is not the case since each of these crescents has an opening toward the north-east. At any rate, the sand is on an almost perpendicular wall of the finest pure white sand, and from the upper edges the crescents slope gradually away on the outside. They average about twenty feet in height, the inner circle having a diameter of some fifty feet, although I have seen one at least a mile and a half in diameter, which was, however, not much higher than the average. These crescents move, it is estimated, at the rate of three inches every twenty-four hours, and when on the slow journey one comes near the railroad it becomes necessary to shovel the sand across the tracks, after which it travels on, forming new crescents or mingling with some of the others—Ernest C. Rost in Harper's Magazine.

Dwellers in the Ice.

The Eskimoes, or "arctic highlanders" of Ross, live in ice caves within their houses, which are covered by the northern Greenland. There is perhaps the most wretched and isolated existence it is possible to conceive. Their "dwellings" are always wet, owing to the melting of the ice walls and floor. For full six months of the year the darkness of the arctic night envelops them. The ice is around them, beneath them, above them. In mining cases out of ten if they venture abroad they breathe the frozen particles, and the sensation is akin to that which comes from inhaling the blast of a furnace.

Nevertheless they refuse to move farther south with the approach of winter, as do all the other Eskimo tribes. They take a sort of perverse pride in their loneliness and in their misery. "What a life!" they say, "if we are cold and hungry? We are the last of all peoples. We dwell literally at the end of the world. To the north of us there is snow, there is ice, but there is no land, and there is nothing that lives, breathes or has independent movement."—Pearson's.

Dumma the Profligate.

"As a rule, I do not buy a book until it is finished," the elder Dumma used often to say. And certainly the pace at which he put his works on paper seems to bear out the statement. No fewer than sixty volumes of his reported within a single year, a record probably never equaled before or since. On one occasion he made a wager of $100 that he would write the first volume of a new book he had planned within seventy-two hours, including the time for meals and sleep. The work was to occupy seventy-five large folio pages, each page containing forty-five lines and each line fifty letters—a total of 3,375 lines. He won the bet with remarkable ease, accomplishing the task in six hours less than the specified time.

Flowers That Harm the Sick.

Botanists and others who have made a life study of flowers have recently discovered that the perfume of blossoms is often increased by growing them under colored glass. They state also that some plants are fragrant only at night and others only in the hot sunshine, that the season affects the odors and that some perfumes powerfully affect the human organization, sometimes giving rise to serious nervous troubles. Flowers of delicate perfume upon the nerves of invalids, it is asserted, but the violet, hilly of the valley and carnations are really harmful to the sick.

Plausible.

"What's the derivation of the word 'college'?" "I give it up." "But surely the word must mean something." "Oh, I guess it was just faked up by some poet who had a rhyme for 'knowledge'."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Who Knows This Man?

"Oh, he is a born debater," said one friend to another the other day. "There is nothing he likes better than an argument. He won't even eat anything unless it agrees with him."—London Tit-Bits.

GOING IN TO DINNER.

How the Methods Differ in France, England and America.

In France they walk into the dining room abreast, the lady and her lord, like two clowns, equal one to the other. In England John Bull goes first, after following week and demure. In America Mrs. Jonathan enters triumphantly, leading the way, while her dear old spouse follows.

In France men and women walk with equal assurance. When they meet on the street the men pay their respect to the women and the latter show their deference to the men by the way in which they salute one another. Your natural conclusion is that such men and women go through life on the same equal footing.

On the contrary, John Bull has the air of a lord of creation. He leads the way a little haughtily perhaps and not overpleasant looking. He is duly sensible of the fact that he is a master—the master. He is of course polite and deferential to women, but it is with a slightly patronizing air, a condescension of his lofty lordship. He feels his supposed superiority, and he cannot help showing it. Among the middle and lower class people the man is master and enters his house before his wife, mother or daughter.

The Price of Slaves.

The price of slaves varied very greatly in different parts of the south in antebellum days. In states like South Carolina or Louisiana, where slaves were always in demand, much more was paid for them than in the border states like Kentucky and Missouri, where they could easily run away. In New Orleans $1,500 to $2,500 was paid for a good, capable, or blacksmith, who in Kentucky or Missouri would not have brought more than half as much. Many slave traders made a regular business of buying in the border states and selling in Mobile, New Orleans or Charleston, and there was always a handsome profit in the transaction. The most risky part of the business was the guarantee demanded that the slave would not run away. The time limit was commonly thirty days, and the matter was usually arranged with the slave himself by taking his promise and giving him $5 or $10 to stay until the guarantee had expired.—Exchange.

Dysentery Cured Without the Aid of a Doctor.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flu" (dysentery) says Mr. T. A. Plummer, a well known business man in this city. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by E. B. Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

Do You Eat Breakfast?

Cereals? Of course you do, but which one? If it's "Zea" you need no advice from us, for you will say it's the best of cereals. "Zea" is good at any meal. Everybody likes "Zea" because it tastes good, is very healthful, all ready to eat with milk or cream, and the pure selected grain from which it is made gives strength to body and brain. Try "Zea" and you will like it. At grocers everywhere.
